is appointed. From then on, destiny took over, until he was commander-in-chief of all the armies of his country and inaugurated into the Presidency for two terms.

In the East, Lee and Jackson were cutting down the federal army after another and general succeeded general in command of the Yankees. From the first, Grant believed that by gaining the rivers, the railroads and major roads that lay east of the Mississippi and south of the Ohio he could gain maneuverability and invade the heart of the opposition. With headquarters in Cairo, Ill., he seized Padurah and again the same thing that the mouth of the Cumberland River. He captured Fort Henry on the Tennessee February 6, 1862, and Fort Donelson February 16th. It was an entering wedge to the Confederacy and a first major federal victory. He was promoted to the Major General.

The Battle of Shiloh is called often, the most persistently misunderstood battle of the Civil War. Grant had been injured the day before, April 5th, in a fall off an horse which killed the animal and he limped to the front. He stopped the enemy impetus, gained the supreme and organized a winning offense. It was a case of smarting in pain, into a losing cause and snatching victory from defeat. He was assigned larger duties and the Vicksburg campaign shaped up, four of strong spirits to assume the offensive. The capture of Vicksburg meant cutting the Confederacy in two. Unfortunately, this section of the nation has little historical knowledge of the phases of the Civil War of the general area of the Mississippi. We are over instructed on the Wilderness, the Peninsula campaigns and the great battles for Washington and Richmond.

A new military division of the Mississippi was set—and Grant's became a magic name for victory. The federal leaders in Washington acclaimed the only man they had who could be counted upon to win. And the hand of destiny pointed his star toward command of all Northern troops.

Appomattox was the net result of Grant's success.

But that is not all. So help us, that is not all. Had it been merely a matter of military victory in a war of attrition, Grant's name today would be lost in the maze of history.

The treatment of his erstwhile opponents AFTER they had surrendered, was the difference between one great federal union for everyone and a new schism. The greatness of Grant flowered at Appomattox in his simple dignity and generous terms—more so than at Shiloh or at Vicksburg.

The time may come when we are cynical in more detail the rest of the life of Grant. It is not something to be overlooked by any American. The Mark Twain episode is a touching story. The Alvarna Claims Arbitration another. He died of cancer. Many make light of his service as President—but I cannot say the like of Washington, Andrew Jackson and Grant, that the military men have been our truest Presidents. What I can say is that Ulysses S. Grant was a gentleman, a devoted husband and father, a man of discerning wisdom and modesty—a humble man out one fearless in the discharge of assumed duty.

And so from Appomattox, Virginia, where our boys dipped one flag and accepted another, we salute Ulysses S. Grant.

Very truly,
FATHER DARKLEAF.

Uncle Sam Says

In February we observe the birthday of our 16th President, Abraham Lincoln. One of the many virtues he possessed was the habit of thrift. In fact, he advocated this great American habit in these words: "Teach economy. That is one of the first and highest virtues. It begins with saving money." Your government has provided one of the best methods ever devised for saving. It is simple in operation—enroll NOW for the purchase of Savings Bonds where you work, or if self-employed, the Bond-A-Month Plan at your bank. U. S. Treasury Department

THE KICKOFF

(By Barbara Johnson)

Well, since this is Community Clean-Up Week, the S. C. A. has asked our school to observe this as school clean-up week, also. We are trying to be extra careful about paper in the halls and on the school grounds. A surprise is being given to the greatest homeroom over the weekly period.

We hear that Bobby Phelps, Randolph Martin, Ann Davidson, Christine Herndon and Mrs. Mary Taylor attended the Annual Science Open House for high schools, sponsored by the Virginia Academy of Science. The open house was held at the University of Virginia.

This is a big week for the seniors as they are having their play tonight, Thursday, April 12. Grease try and come as we want you there.

The girls softball team played Concord girl's team Wednesday. We do not know the outcome of the game yet, but we know it will come out O. K. Also, the boys will play Campbell High School Wednesday at 4:00 o'clock, at Pamplin.

The Spanish II Class saw a movie Tuesday entitled, "Tehuantepec". This was enjoyed by all. Also three of our second year students are taking state-wide Spanish tests today this week. Good luck to them.

The Junior play will be presented May 4 in the auditorium. The cast will be announced soon.

This year's annual staff and sponsors have finally selected the "Traveler Staff" for 1951-52.

We are planning to have a school paper next year. The staff has been selected, along with the annual.

I will leave this week with this thought: "Empty your pocket books into your heads and you will never be broke."

Because we're specialists in all phases of frozen food storage, many people ask us if they should buy a home freezer or rent a locker. The answer, we think, is to have both, if you can afford them.

Today the home freezer is taking its place in the new scheme of food handling, not as a competitor of the locker plant, but as an extension. It performs the same function as your electric refrigerator . . . it puts frozen foods where you can use them more conveniently.

Remember, the home freezer cannot chill, age, process, or wrap; it can freeze only small amounts of food. So we suggest you use the locker plant for the source of your food supply, for proper processing, sharp freezing, and reserve storage. Then, if you can, use a home freezer or two-temperature refrigerator for the convenience it can provide.

Demonstrate Dynamiting Of Ditches

Due to the increased interest throughout Appomattox County on drainage problems, R. B. Hudgins, County Agent and C. S. Booth, Soil Conservationist, in cooperation with J. A. Waller, Jr., Extension Agricultural Engineer, have arranged to have a ditch blasting demonstration on the farm of H. A. Torrence beginning at 1:00 P. M., April 25.

The Torrence farm is about two miles north of Appomattox, about one mile off Route 24 on 656 after one passes the Old Court House.

The demonstration will include laying out the line, placing the dynamite and actually shooting several hundred feet of ditch. Prior to the demonstration, there will be a discussion on open ditch drainage, and underground tile drainage.

It is seldom that these demonstrations can be arranged and all people interested in drainage are urged to be present and get first-hand information.

F. F. Carr Gets 4-Month Leave

F. F. Carr, District Conservationist for the Robert E. Lee and Natural Bridge Soil Conservation Districts with headquarters at Appomattox, has been given a four months assignment to the Regional Office of the Soil Conservation Service, Spartanburg, S. C., effective April 15, 1951. Mr. Carr will do some special agronomy work throughout Soil Conservation Region 11. Region II embraces nine South...ern states and Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands in the Caribbean area.

Mr. Carr has been with the Soil Conservation Service in Virginia since 1935 with the exception of four years in the Army during World War II. He has served as Project Agronomist, Area Agronomist and District Conservationist during that time.

During his absence, John L. Hagood, Soil Conservationist, for Campbell County has been assigned to the Appomattox District Office to take charge of the Soil Conservation Service operations in the two districts.

Mr. Harrison has been connected with soil conservation work in Central Virginia for the past 15 years and has been particularly identified with the work in Campbell County for the past six years. Mr. Harrison is not only well acquainted with the conservation problems in this section of the state but is a Conservation Farmer in his own right. He operates an 850 beef cattle farm in Appomattox County, which is often used for study as a model for sound farming methods.

Association Elects Bruner

The Rev. Benjamin R. Bruner, pastor of the Farmville Baptist Church, was elected moderator of the Appomattox Baptist Association last week. He succeeds George Abbitt, Jr., who had served as the moderator for the past year.

In addition to election of officers, reports were received from 45 churches in the Appomattox Association at two meetings last week, one at Midway Church, near Phenix and the other at Ebenezer, at Naruna in Campbell County.

Rev. Bruner will serve as moderator for one year. It is the custom in the association to have a layman as moderator one year and a minister the next.

Carter Woodson lead the Appomattox hitters with two hits in four times at bat. The other hits were made by Bobby Chernault, Ed Cawthorne, Bill Jamerson and Ray Wingfield, one each. This was Appomattox's first league game of the season.

Appomattox lost to Madison Heights Tuesday, at Madison Heights by a close score of 8 to 7. Appomattox was behind 7 to 0 going into the 7th inning and then started a rally which netted five runs. J. T. Guill banged out a triple in this big inning to drive in three tallies. Appomattox tied the score in the 8th, and then lost the ball game in the 9th when two errors contributed to a Madison Heights score. Appomattox had eight errors during the game. A. H. Chest Clinics Here in May

Thomas Parran, Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service, says:

"It is my hope that every person in the United States over 15 years of age will have a chest x-ray to make sure he is free of tuberculosis. If, within five years, we discover and follow up the great majority of tuberculosis cases, we can eliminate the disease as a public health hazard."

Therefore the State Department urges everyone over 15 years of age to get a free chest x-ray which takes less than a minute of your time for which you do not even have to undress. Chest x-ray clinic will be held here early in May.
